Chair Professor Liu Liang is the academician of the Chinese Academy of Engineering and fellow of National Academy of Inventors. He is the current President of Macau University of Science and Technology (MUST) and Director of State Key Laboratory of Quality Research in Chinese Medicine. He also serves as a project advisor for traditional medicine of World Health Organization (WHO), the Convener of 1st Working Group and Member of the Technical Committee of ISO/TC249, the founding President of the Specialty Committee of Immunology of Traditional Chinese Medicine (SCITCM) and the Vice-president of the Specialty Committee of Education and 5 other Specialty Committees of the World Federation of Chinese Medicine Societies, as well as a series of academic and social concurrent positions including the standing member of China Association of Higher Education, Chair/member of the Grant Review Committee for Chinese Medicine Research funded by Natural Science Foundation of China (NSFC), member of Health Reform Advisory Committee of State Administration of Traditional Chinese Medicine, President of Macau International Collaboration Alliance for Rheumatology Research, member of Talents Development Committee and Science & Technology Committee of Macau Special Administrative Region

Prof. Liu received his doctorate degree of Philosophy from Guangzhou University of Traditional Chinese Medicine in Medicine (Integration of Chinese and Western Medicine) in 1990. Then in 1992, he worked as a visiting scholar at the Institute of Molecular Pharmacology of Medical School Hannover and Max-Planck (MPG) Institute of Clinical Immunology and Rheumatism (German Academy of Sciences) at Erlangen-Nuremberg University in Germany, engaging in the research of osteoarthritis and anti-inflammation by Chinese herbal medicine. After his return to China, Prof. Liu was appointed as Vice-president of Guangzhou University of Traditional Chinese Medicine and supervisor for PhD students in 1997. Through the "Max-Planck-Fellowship Scheme" launched by Honorarw i biomarkers. By collaborating with Hunan Zhengqing Pharmaceutical Group, Prof. Liu successfully developed the new drug of Zhengqingfengtongning sustained release tablets which is the first controlled-release drug from Chinese herbal medicine in China. This drug has been widely used across China for the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis and other diseases and it also has been included in the drug list of National Medical Insurance and National Essential Medicine List. Zhengqingfengtongning is also the first drug to be able to suppress mPGES-1 which acts as the ultimate synthetase of prostaglandin E<sub>2</sub>. Since the mechanism of the drug is different from those anti-inflammatory drugs inhibiting COX<sub>2</sub>, it would not induce cardiovascular side effects. In addition, the research team led by Prof. Liu first established the gene catalogue of the Sprague-Dawley rats gut metagenome which will serve as a valuable resource for future work using rats as a model for inves
